

ICANN for Beginners Virtual Program

Interested in Internet governance?

Ready to learn about ICANN, an international organization that helps make the Internet work?

Great, then check out the ICANN for Beginners Virtual Program!

What is it all about?

The ICANN for Beginners Virtual Program is a series of 60-minute webinars geared specifically towards people interested in Internet governance. Our webinars are engaging and interactive and require no prior technical or governance experience. Our moderators will introduce you to the basics of how the Internet works, Internet governance, and the critical role Internet organizations play in keeping the Internet open, free, and safe for all. Plus, we don't just show you how Internet governance works, but also how you can join the global community to shape the Internet of tomorrow.

What do I need to do?

Participating is easy and free. All you need is access to the Internet and 60 minutes to join the webinar. There will be two sessions so choose the one that works for you!
